

FALL MODES ARE SHOWN AT OPENING

Somber Tones Predominate Although Evening Gowns Add Touches of Brilliance at Ellsworth Style Exhibit.

Somber and straight, the season's fashions as displayed at the annual fall opening of the Ellsworth store Thursday fulfilled the prophecies and reflected in line and color the shadowing European imbroglio. But they are beautiful, nevertheless, and what is perhaps better still, in madam's estimation, they are exceedingly chic.

Brown-eyed susans and a profusion of ferns throughout the store formed an attractive background for the prevailing colors of the fashion display prime favorites among which are nigger brown, like the center of the brown-eyed susan, and Russian green, a trifle darker than the foliage of the flower and ferns.

The background of both windows was pearl grey festooned with southern smilax and adorned with tall French vases filled with brown-eyed susans.

In the north window are several tailored frocks and a new material which looks something like crepe meteor; feels like velvet and is called satin d'amour. In the two evening gowns shown in the window are exemplified the features of some of the prettiest. The white gown of net with a flounced skirt has for its distinctive feature a basque of silver mesh. In the silver and gold mesh, jet, silver, gold and crystal pascimetry, strongly in vogue in afternoon and evening gowns, is found the brilliance of the military which in all else is so somber.

The second evening gown in the window is in the new light American beauty shade, which aside from evening gowns is popular in millinery. It shows the most attractive adaptation of the basque or evening wear and also an attractive use of crystal fringe to finish the tunic.

Tunic Here to Stay.

The tunic is here to stay the rest of the season but its lines are rather changed from the earlier style. Instead of being perfectly straight and full it is narrower at the top and flaring at the bottom, varying in width from 2-1/4 to 3-1/2 yards. The underskirt beneath is still narrow. Bodices are still lacy, and chiffon cloth remains popular, but all the dressier waists must have a touch of fur.

Among the best of the season's models are the Reddingcoat suits and dresses, particularly the coat dresses, with a basque cut short in front and very long on the sides and in the back. Capes are very good for evening wear but are little seen on the streets, as their entrance in the middle of the summer killed them for the fall. Half capes of lace are lovely and much seen on evening gowns. The loveliest new laces are craquelé, metal run laces, spangled and "iridescent", the latter having figures worked in leads and metals.

Here are the Colors.

The only real colors will be black, white, navy blue, nigger brown and Russian green.

In hats, everything depends upon the angle at which it is placed on the head. Some of the most common-place ones turn into the most chic when tilted over the left ear or over the right eye or at any other unexpected angle. The "damed models" which are most prominent are the toppers—and it's real jockey too—the German bonnet, the kiltie, the tricorn and the straight brim. Although sailors will be much worn, they mustn't under any consideration be called sailors. They are "straight brims".

Something distinctly new will be scarfs and girdles to match the hats, the scarfs made with the half-cape effects. The prettiest new shade in millinery is mysterious or "Sphinx" blue, much trimmed in gray, and a decidedly new trimming are ostrich feathers outlined with peacock bands, or large velvet pansies with one petal prolonged to form a quill.

WILSON ASKS 100 MILLIONS WAR TAX FOR EMERGENCY

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) sources of taxation. But at what cost to the business of the community? Approximately $75,000,000, a large part of the present treasury balance, is now on deposit with national banks distributed throughout the country. It is deposited, of course, on call. I need not point to you what the probable consequences of convenience and distress and confusion would be if the diminishing income of the treasury should make it necessary rapidly to withdraw these deposits, and yet without additional revenue that plainly might become necessary and the time when it became necessary could not be controlled or determined by the convenience of the business of the country. It would be determined by the operations and necessities of the treasury itself.

"Such risks are not necessary and ought not to be run. We cannot too scrupulously and too carefully safeguard a financial situation which is at best, while war continues in difficult and abnormal.

"Hesitation and delay are the worst forms of bad policy under such conditions.

Ought Not to Borrow.

"And we ought not to borrow. We ought to resort to taxation, however. We may regret the necessity of putting additional temporary burdens on our people. To sell bonds would be to make a most untimely and unjustifiable demand on the money market; untimely, because this is manifestly not the time to withdraw working capital from other uses to pay the government bills; unjustifiable because unnecessary. The country is able to pay any just and reasonable taxes without distress. And to every other form of borrowing, whether for long periods or for short, there is the same objection. These are not the circumstances. This is at this particular moment, and in this particular exigency, not the market to borrow large sums of money. What we are seeking is to ease and assist every financial transaction in order not to add a single additional embarrassment to the situation. The people of this country are both intelligent and profoundly patriotic.

Occasion Not Our Making.

"They are ready to meet the present conditions in the right way and to support the government with generous self-denial. They know and understand, and will be intolerant only of those who dodge responsibility or are not frank with them.

"The occasion is not of our own making. We had no part in making it. But here it is. It affects us as directly and painfully almost as if we were participants in the circumstances which gave rise to it. We must accept the inevitable with calm judgment and untroubled spirits, like men accustomed to deal with the unexpected, habituated to take care of themselves, masters of their own affairs and their own fortunes. We shall pay the bill, though we did not deliberately incur it.

Need Certain and Constant Yield.

"In order to meet every demand upon the treasury without delay or peradventure and in order to keep the treasury strong, unquestionably strong, and strong throughout the present anxiety, it is respectfully urged that an additional revenue of $100,000,000 be raised through internal taxes devised in your wisdom to meet the emergency. The only suggestion I take the liberty of making is that such a revenue be raised in a way which will begin to yield at once and yield with a certain and constant flow.

"I cannot close without expressing the confidence which I approach a congress with regard to this or other matters, which has shown so untiring a devotion to public duty, which has responded to the needs of the nation throughout a long season despite inevitable fatigue and personal sacrifice, and so large a proportion of whose members have devoted their whole time and energy to the business of the country."

LIGONIER PHYSICIAN IS HELD UNDER MANN ACT

Dr. Louis Wineburg Charged With Misconduct With Girl Patient.

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Dr. Louis P. Wineburg of Ligonier, Ind., faces a trial by the federal authorities on a charge of violating the Mann act, James L. Bruff, chief of the Chicago bureau of investigation, has received instructions from the department of justice at Washington, to proceed with the prosecution of the case.

The girl in the case is Miss Gracebell Locher, whom Dr. Wineburg is charged with transporting to Kalamazoo, Mich., for immoral purposes. He is a married man and has three children.

Shortly after the indictment was returned, Mrs. Wineburg appeared before the Chicago authorities and asked that the indictment be quashed. On her plea the question of continuing the prosecution was put up to the justice department at Washington. Wineburg gave himself up but was released on a $2,500 bond.

Wineburg was the family physician and had been attending the Locher girl for several years. The girl suffered with nervous disorders, according to the government's information, and had been treated for several years for a nervous breakdown. The physician is charged with having "doped" her in order to control her will power. Under this sort of treatment it is charged the girl's condition grew worse until she had frequent attacks of hysteria.

At this point, according to the complaint, upon being consulted by her parents, Dr. Wineburg advised that the girl be sent to an uncle in Kalamazoo for a rest. The advice was followed, and on May 2, 1913, Miss Locher arrived in Kalamazoo for a stay with William Locher, her uncle.

Takes Girl to Chicago.

A few days later, according to the government, Dr. Wineburg appeared in Kalamazoo, by prearrangement with the girl, met her on the street, told her he had come to take her to a nerve specialist, and induced her to go with him to Chicago, without notifying her uncle.

On May 6, 1913, it is charged, Dr. Wineburg arrived in Chicago and took Miss Locher to the Great Northern hotel, where he registered as "A. K. Johnson and wife, Madison, Wis." On the same day, according to the government, Dr. Wineburg registered at the Morrison hotel under his own name. The handwriting of these two registrations will figure prominently in the trial, and it is likely the government will call in several handwriting experts.

RUSSIAN TROOPS MOVING ON WITH LEMBERG AS BASE

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) tricians is being cut to pieces by Russian cavalry, but their main force has reached and crossed the Silesia. Austrian artillery has been mounted along the stream but if no more successful than along the Zlota-Lipa it is likely to be captured.

In addition to the great number of guns we took from the Austrians we also acquired vast supplies. Part of those at Lemberg were destroyed before the enemy surrendered.

Move Toward Suzawa.

"The Russian forces operating at the extreme left are moving toward Suzawa, southeast of Czernowitz, which fell into our hands on Aug. 31.

"The movement toward Suzawa indicates that the Russian forces there have as their objective Borge pass in the mountain with the intention of striking at Buda Pest, directly to the west.

A statement dealing with operations on Wednesday says:

"According to latest reports the battle of Sept. 2 resulted in Russian victories. In order to counteract Austrian intentions a vigorous attack was made which resulted successfully. The enemy retreated precipitately. Our trophies are a flag, mitrailleuses and many prisoners."

The location of this battle was not given but is believed to have been northwest of Lemberg.

A later report from the right wing of the Russian army lines says:

"The Russians scored a victory over the Austrians near Lublin and Kholm (Chelm). The Austrians hastily retreated, the Russians capturing eight maxims and 1,000 prisoners. The latter state that the Austrian army is panic stricken. The Russians captured in the neighborhood of Lemberg yesterday 20 additional guns. Their advance continued uninterrupted."

(Both Lublin and Chelm are in Russian Poland).

FORT WAYNE.—Miss Lillian Clark, an aeronaut, after bidding goodbye to all her spectators, saying that she would arrive safely, was drowned in the stream near Robinson park, where the ascension took place. Her parachute went into the stream in the presence of thousands of spectators.

PRINCE ENDS HIS LIFE

Feared Rebuke Because His Forces Attacked Infantry.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Lady Randolph Churchill declared on her arrival here Thursday that Prince Frederick William of Liepzig was not killed as the result of wounds received on the battlefield, but that he had committed suicide in remorse over the fact that a German cavalry regiment which he was leading had attacked a German infantry regiment by mistake in the dusk of the evening of Aug. 4.

The cavalry regiment almost annihilated the infantry before the error was discovered and according to Lady Churchill, who arrived from Holland, the prince killed himself rather than face rebuke from the kaiser.

PESKY BED BUGS

The bed bug is pronounced by the medical profession to be the most dangerous insect, having much to do with spread of tuberculosis and other diseases, including possibly leprosy and spinal meningitis. It's no disgrace to get bed bugs, but it is a disgrace to keep them, especially when we have ready at hand a chemical called P. D. Q. that actually puts the end to the pesky devils.

A MILLION BED BUGS!

Just think! A 25-cent package of the new golden colored chemical is enough to make a quart and enough to kill a million bed bugs, no matter how large they may be, where they came from, their age, color or sex, and at the same time leaves a coating on their eggs and prevents hatching.

CUT THIS OUT.

This new chemical can be had at any first class drug store. A 25-cent package of P. D. Q. will go farther than a barrel of poisonous dope. Don't let anybody impose upon your intelligence by offering you something else. Insist on what you ask for, then you'll have the satisfaction of knowing you have what doctors prescribe—P. D. Q. A full quart of the strongest bug killer on earth can be made at home with a 25-cent package of P. D. Q.

The new chemical, P. D. Q. (Pesky Devils Quietus) is the only bug killer that leaves a coating on their eggs and prevents hatching.

PESKY DEVILS QUIETUS.

Pesky Devils Quietus—P. D. Q.—is the name of the new chemical that was discovered by a chemical company and actually puts the everlasting end to insects.

P. D. Q. will not rot, burn or stain the springs or bedding and it is considered harmless to human and animal life.

P. D. Q. deodorizes and disinfects—antiseptic. It kills bugs and their eggs.

KILLS FLEAS ON DOGS.

It's fun to see the fleas drop off your pet dogs. Pour P. D. Q. after being mixed in palm of hand and rub on hair both ways. They will drop off dead immediately when P. D. Q. is used.

BED BUG SPOUT.

Every package of P. D. Q. contains a patent spout that will fit any ordinary bottle and it will enable you to make a 25-cent package go further than a barrel of old fashioned bug killer.

KILLS CHICKEN LICE.

No use for your chickens to have lice. A 25-cent package mixed by directions on package makes a gallon of chicken lice killer.

KILLS MOTHS.

Preserve your furs and clothing with P. D. Q. Sprinkle dry P. D. Q. on clothing, furs, robes, rugs or whatever you want to protect against the pesky moths, and also dust in bottom of trunk of container.

LOOK FOR THE DEVIL.

Look for the devil heads on every package of P. D. Q.—then you'll have the genuine—the kind that is endorsed by the hospitals and medical profession generally. For sale by Wetteck's original cut-rate medicine store, 107 E. Jefferson st., South Bend, Ind.—Adv.
